

Bleep's Web Back Office (W-BO) is a unique, web based product. This means you can gain access to your data from literally anywhere in the world, at any time, always keeping you in control. It is a multi language, multi user, multi level security policy application that is a total back office solution.

W-BO puts the emphasis upon control.

As a module driven service, rather than an application, W-BO maintains the competitive edge in that the service is charged for on a monthly basis and modules may be activated or deactivated as and when required, allowing the flexibility to control what you want, when you want.

The basic package is the W-BO Core package, containing all of the facilities needed to control your business on a day to day basis, such as, live sales data, end of day reporting and sales and staff performances.
